Captain Carlton McCarthy will be Richmond's next Mayor. He was nominated in yesterday's Democratic primary over Hon. Richard M. Taylor, incumbent of the office for ten years, by 139 majority. The primary was the first held under the poll-tax provision of the new Constitution, and also the first under the new ward arrangement. The vote was considerably larger than had been expected. McCarthy received 2,653 and Taylor 2,514, making a total vote cast of 5,167. McCarthy carried ten precincts, Taylor twelve, and the vote in Fourth Jefferson was a tie. McCarthy carried Lee, Henry and Monroe wards, and Taylor carried Clay, Madison, Jefferson and Marshall. The liquor dealers made an aggressive but futile fight on McCarthy and many of their slates for the Council were smashed.

CAPTAIN CARLTON MCCARTHY.
Richmond's Next Mayor, Who Was Nominated by a Majority of 139.

THE RETIRING MAYOR HAS NOTHING TO SAY

"I have nothing to say," was all Mayor Taylor would say to a Times-Dispatch man last night, when it was apparent he was defeated. One of his closest friends, however, said in his behalf: "While the Mayor lost, he made a good fight. He was the victim of circumstances. It was not the man who beat him, but it was a combination of conditions. His enforced action in connection with the street-car strike was a potent factor in his defeat, and there were other things, too. While it may have been an unwise thing in the liquor dealers to endorse him, he did not indicate any displeasure, but in going to defeat, went with his friends. I know he is gratified at the support given him, and the fine fight against obstacles his friends made."

MR. COCKRAN AGAIN WAXES ELOQUENT

Mr. Dalzell Renews Saturday's Debate and Makes Additional Charges Against the New Yorker—Silver-Tongued Orator Makes Brilliant Defense and Asks for Investigation Committee.

(By Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, D. C., April 26.—The "heavy-weights" had another bout in the House to-day with Messrs. Dalzell and Cockran as the combatants. The speeches were a renewal of last Saturday's debate, but were more personal in their character. As on Saturday the speakers were greeted with vociferous applause by their respective colleagues and the bitterness of party feeling ran high. Mr. Dalzell repeated his charges that Mr. Cockran had received money for his support of McKinley. The charge was indignantly denied by Mr. Cockran. The climax came when Mr. Cockran offered a resolution providing for the appointment or selection of five members from the House to investigate the charge which had been made against him by Mr. Dalzell. He and other Democrats, including Mr. Williams, the minority leader, demanded immediate consideration, but the speaker declined to pass on a point of order against the resolution.

THE INCOMING MAYOR SPEAKS KINDLY OF ALL

Captain McCarthy, after his nomination was assured, made this statement: "At this moment, election assured, I desire only to express my appreciation of your generous partiality and kind support. I rejoice to be able to say that in this campaign there have been no animosities and no bitterness. Finally, I desire to say that I entertain for those who opposed me the same kind feelings which I have for those who ardently supported me and that those interests which have seemed to oppose me will be as considerably treated as if they had given me their warmest support."

CAPTAIN MCCARTHY FORCED TO MAKE AN ADDRESS

Friends Drag Him to the Front and He Declares He Will be Fair to Friend and Foe and Will Have the Laws Executed With Justice to All.

After the hottest municipal contest waged in Richmond in many years, Captain Carlton McCarthy was yesterday nominated for Mayor by a majority of 139 over Captain Richard M. Taylor, the incumbent of the office for the past ten years.

A full ticket for the Council and half the Board of Aldermen was also named, and in both branches of the body there are many changes.

The primary was the first under the poll tax provision of the Constitution, and also the first since the new ward lines were drawn, and these changed conditions tended to render the situation chaotic and uncertain from start to finish.

The victory for Captain McCarthy was wonderful, all things considered, and his followers were perfectly wild with delight when the result was known late last night. While it was 12:25 o'clock this morning, when the last precinct, which was First Clay, was actually read out, though the unofficial figures had been brought to Sanger Hall, where the returns were received perhaps an hour earlier. With four precincts out at 11 o'clock, Third Jefferson, First and Second Clay and First Lee, the result in favor of McCarthy was figured out pretty nearly by the politicians, the Taylor leaders practically giving up the fight then, although their favorite had led from the start and was then several hundred ahead.

The hall was fairly jammed with enthusiastic supporters of the two candidates, and when it became known that McCarthy was a sure winner his followers, largely in the majority, yelled themselves hoarse, threw hats and canes, in the air and hugged one another in mad, joyous excitement.

The proud victor was called out, and made a brief, but manly speech, which provoked the wildest demonstration of approval. His utterances were modest, conservative and reassuring, and he declared amid enthusiasm that he bore the kindest feelings for those who had seen fit to oppose his nomination.

Mayor Taylor sat near the front through the agonizing hours, his eyes fixed immovably upon a tally sheet, sweating great beads of perspiration, and apparently trying to figure out victory with the figures against him. He said little or nothing to any one, and his face presented a picture of abject pity and distress, which he saw the costly prize of his ambition lost beyond all hope.

The big Taylor precincts were the first to report, and at one time the Mayor had a lead of over 500 over his opponent.

The McCarthy people never lost hope, but remained quiet amid the thunderous applause that greeted the announcement of a series of Taylor victories.

Were Wild With Joy.

The followers of the Mayor were wild with excited hope and when nine out of the twenty-two precincts were in, many of them seemed willing to lay odds on their favorite.

They were a little later even more buoyant, and it looked at one time as though they had strong ground for confidence. But by 11 o'clock they began to see that the finish would be close with chances favoring McCarthy. At the end, they had melted away, under the enthusiastic McCarthy demonstrations, like frost before the rising sun, and it was mainly the devoted band that had stood loyally by the game little city accountant throughout the struggle, who remained to cheer joyfully over his victory when he was finally almost dragged forward and forced to speak. The odds were all against Captain McCarthy throughout his struggle from the start and never did a man make a more magnificent battle or win more glorious victory.

He had gone down under the iron heel of a brutal defeat by Mayor Taylor two years ago, having lost every precinct in the city.

The Liquor Dealers' Association declared war against him, endorsed Mayor Taylor outright, and recklessly and per-
